2010 World Cup Security Conference

“Security: The Good News Story”

You will hear from a panel of corporate and government experts who will explore key security and logistical challenges associated with the World Cup. They will share their views on why South Africa is ready from a security perspective and provide details around the plans to protect both visitors and participants. Topics, amongst others, will include crime, terrorism and the 2010 World Cup, law enforcement operational plans, airport security, transport, venue security, fraud, emergency services preparedness, disaster management and international intelligence cooperation. This is a two day OSAC conference aimed at local and overseas business and governments to share the latest security information. It will also provide an opportunity to network with security specialists, corporate security management and key law enforcement agencies.
